Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The investment objective of the fund is to achieve interest income, with the potential for some long term capital growth, by investing primarily in corporate credit securities. The primary return objective is to deliver income and return in excess of the Canadian Dollar Offered Rate (CDOR) over a credit cycle. The Fund is intended to have a risk profile similar to that of the Bank of America Merrill Lynch BB-B U.S. High Yield Constrained Index (hedged back to Canadian Dollars), but with lower interest rate risk. The Multi Credit Fund has the ability to invest across the capital structure of a business with a core focus on global high yield bonds, U.S. senior loans and global investment grade bonds.

Risk

The overall risks of investing in the Fund are as described in the Simplified Prospectus. There were no material changes to the Fund during the year that affected the overall level of risk.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net assets decreased by 18% in the first half of 2022 to $160.6 million from $195.9 million at the end of 2021. Of this change, $20.4 million was attributable to negative investment performance and $14.9 million to net outflows from unitholders.

As of June 30, 2022, the Multi Credit Fund Series A decreased -11.0% before fees, and Series B and F decreased -11.5% and -11.4%, respectively, both after fees and expenses.

At the beginning of the year, the Multi Credit Fund's asset composition was 0.5% investment grade corporate bonds, 67.6% high yield bonds, 28.2% senior secured loans, and 3.7% cash and other assets.

High yield bonds came under pressure during the first quarter due to rising interest rates and global uncertainty regarding the Russia-Ukraine conflict. Credit spreads in the high yield market widened from the start of the year through mid-March. Spreads compressed in late-March and ended the quarter slightly wider from where they started.

Holdings in B-rated and CCC-rated bonds outperformed the broader high-yield market due to having less interest rate sensitivity than BB-rated issues. The fund's overweight to the Energy sector and underweight to longer maturity bonds helped to outperform the broader high yield market. The fund's allocation to bank loans outperformed high yield bonds as their floating rate coupons benefitted from rising interest rates.

The second quarter of 2022 was also challenging for high yield bonds, as rising interest rates and concerns surrounding inflation weighed heavily on investor sentiment. Credit spreads in the high yield market widened moderately during the quarter, starting at 2.95% and ending at 5.14%. Expected default rates for both high yield bonds and bank loans also rose in the quarter; however, they remain at levels near long-term averages.

In the broader high yield market, all sectors had negative returns. Healthcare, followed by Retail and Media, were the most significant contributors to negative performance, all suffering double digit declines. B-rated and CCC-rated bonds underperformed the broader market. Bank loans outperformed high yield bonds as their floating rate coupons benefited from rising interest rates.

The fund continues to be positioned with a bias towards owning fixed rate high yield bonds over bank loans. As at June 30, 2022, the composition of the fund was 73.0% high yield bonds, 23.7% senior secured loans, and 3.3% cash and other net assets.

In contrast to 2021, the high yield bond market has limited new issue activity, and the economy has less fiscal and monetary support. We expect central bank rate hikes to continue over the near term and inflation pressures to subside as tighter monetary policy tempers demand and supply chain issues moderate. In this period of uncertainty in sub-investment grade markets, we will look to take advantage of lower prices and higher yields.

Recent Developments

High yield markets rose in July 2022, with one market measure, the ICE BofAML BB-B High Yield Constrained Index, up +5.4% on the month.

(1) This information is provided as at December 31 of the year shown; unless noted otherwise.

(2) Management expense ratio is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period.

(3) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

(4) The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio adviser manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher a fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund.
